"The bathymetric metadata and Digital Terrain Model data products have been derived from the EMODnet Hydrography portal - <http://www.emodnet-hydrography.eu>. This portal was initiated by the European Commission as part of developing the European Marine Observation and Data Network (EMODnet). The overall objective of EMODnet is to create pilots to migrate fragmented and inaccessible marine data into interoperable, continuous and publicly available data streams for complete maritime basins. The Hydrography portal development started in June 2009 and now provides a range of options for freely browsing and downloading new Digital Terrain Models (DTM) for a large part of the European seas. The downloadable files are freely available in a number of formats. The EMODnet digital bathymetry has been produced from bathymetric survey data and aggregated bathymetry data sets collated from public and private organisations. These are processed and quality controlled. A further refinement and expansion is underway, by gathering additional survey data sets, expanding geographical coverage to all European sea regions and upgrading the DTM grid resolution, and will result in new releases in time. The portal also includes a metadata discovery service that gives clear information about the background survey data used for the DTMs, their access restrictions, originators and distributors."

WARNING:

All charts are digitized directly from existing government and other official charts, and should not be used solely

All charts are digitized directly from existing government and other official charts, and should not be used solely for navigation. Digital charts are intended to be used as an aid to traditional navigational charts, not as a replacement. Only official government charts and notices to mariners and notices to shipping/NAVAREA broadcasts and written alerts contain all information needed for the safety of navigation, and as always, the captain is responsible for their prudent use. A prudent navigator never relies on any single source of navigational information. Garmin strives to provide its customers with the most economical, accurate and up-to-date chart data. However, features are continually changing, so the data may not reflect the latest modifications and/or additions in your area. Garmin makes no warranty as to the accuracy or completeness of the data.

WARNING:

Some of the information in this product may have been produced in part or whole from withdrawn national hydrographic office products. New charts and/or NTM corrections will render this product obsolete and inaccurate.
